ESTABLISHED 1844

THE LEGISLATIVE OUTLOOK.

May Not Do.

News and Courier. News and Courier.

Columbia, S. C., January 12—: A brand new Paimetto flag is to day floating over the lantern of the new State House dome. Tuesday morning two additional flags will go dp. One will mark the opening of the State Senate and the other that of the House for Representatives is ready to begin its work of making laws for the people of the State. There are a great many things that the General Assembly will be called upon to do, and a greater proportion of these things will not be done.

and a greater proportion of these things will not be done.

There is not a Legislator who comes here who does not know that there is now plenty of law on the statute books and that the best thing that can be done is to have as short a session as possible; pass only the requisite legislation; adjourn and go home. It is, how ever, useless to hope that such things are possible, as much as the force of the lacts may be appreciated.

The one hope that this will be a short search.

The one hope that this will be a short season and that there will be no delays on account of uscless legislation is that this year is the time-for holding another primary.

There is a great dear of work left over from last session, and on the House and Senate calendars there is now to be found ample work for the two houses, with the exception of the necessary appropriation and supply bills.

On the adjournment of the General Assembly last year it was my pleasure to write:
"There was no radical or grandstand legislation at this session. Most of the issues about which there was most contention and most discussion were either killed or continued until next session."

There is a regular a proof deal and if the discussion were either killed or continued until next session."

That was teaying a great deal and if the temptation to pass "radical and grandstand legislation" can again be avoided, a good year's work will again have been accomplished. It is a great, a very great temptation, to assist in the passage of "radical or grand stand legislation," and very often it is painful to see the joy and glory some of the members have in whacking some organization, institution or curporation over the head simply because of the power to do so.

There was a day when a great many applauded this radical policy, but to-day the people realize that the industrial and commercial interests of the State have to be protected and that there is merit in the "nye and let live" policy.

A BAD YEAR FOR BIG PENSIONS.

A BAD YEAR FOR BIG PENSIONS.

The General Assembly at its last session was liberal and public spirited? This good leeling and generoesity was shown to many ways and in numerous bills. It was the un mistakable intention of the General Assembly that the annual appropriation for Confederate pensions should be increased it $150,000. The Supreme Court of the State belt that the lawmakers did not carry into effect what was meant, and so this year the pensioners received only $100,000. It is likely that this defect will be cared at this session. There is a well defined purpose to bave a Confederate Home established. The General Assembly is disposed to grant whatever is asked by the brave soldiers of the Confederac, and as the request will come through the United Confederate Veterans, the measure is lakely to be adopted. There is, however, decided opposition to the plan, not because of any desire to defin the old soldiers anything in the world, but because it is urged that more good can be accomplished by fettin the old soldiers have their money and spend it at home with their triends and kinsiolk.

A YEAR FOR ECONOMY.

Ordinarily there are members who chron loady complain of the flard times, but this year that complaint will come with better grace. There will be but little chance of getting any extrast his year, and all that the members will be disposed to grant will be the necessaries. The members will bring with them pretty much from all parts of the Statitidings of poor crops, and the floancial cuit, will be heavy indeed.

MILL LEGISLATION.

Naturally there will be a great deal sale about the child labor bills, and there are likely to be algreat many records made and unmade on that question. The Senate hap passed a measure on this subject, and that bill is now on the House side. Last year the House killed all bills relating to the factory labor question. There is bound to be a contest and plenty of talking upon the subject.

but what will be accomplished it is half to say.

The representatives from the district where there are the most factories and the largest mill votes, strange as it may seem, are pretty generally opposed to any interference with the mills, their labor, or the existing conditions, while, the heavies proportion of the votes locking towards in terference comes from those counties when there are not now and have never beet factories, and where the conditions are not subject to home sentiment, and the memberare not expected to know as much about the setting conditions as those who live in the very heart of the conditions sought to be remedied.

HAVE WE ANY U S. SENATORS?

remedied.

HAVE WE ANY U.S. SENATORS?

The Tillman-McLaurin contention is certain to come up at this session, and it will occasion more are less amisement and may lead to serious complications.

There will be a resolution looking into the legal phase of the question, and the judiciary committee will be asked to rettle whether on not be state has any United States sensitors, both of them having resigned. It strates to sensitory both of them having resigned to the state of the whole of the maximum resignation is one another as Governor teannot be recalled. The state of the proport in line with the Tillman view their judiciary committees, it is said, will be asked to look into the matter, and if the report in line with the Tillman view their judiciary committees, it is said, will be asked to look into the matter, and if the report in line with the Tillman view their judiciary committees, it is said, will be asked to look into the matter, and if the report in line with the Tillman view their for look into the matter, and if the report in line with the Tillman view their for look into the matter, and if the report in line with the Tillman view their for the sense to pass upon the question as to who should occupy the seats, and whether those who sent their resignations in the Governor or those elected by the General Assembly are entitled to the seats. The governor or those elected by the General Tillman would have no difficulty in being received, and, of course, the idea is that the fight would be made on Senator MoLaurin.

Expostructive to a rearrangement of the districts. The deposition is to let this ample of the view of the many of the profession of the districts. The deposition is to let this so great in some of the district in the committee will have to be done if it be no more than to put the course of the district of another.

Expostructive to a rearrangement of the districts of the course of the districts of the course of the district of the course of the district of the course of the district of the course

It is urged that Richland County would much prefer an alliance with Orangeburg. Sumter, Lexington and Clarendon counties, than with Greenville, Spartanburg and Union counties.

It is also stated that the effort will be made to have Charleston and Beautort put in separate Congressional districts. There will not be much, trouble to settle the whole matter if the members only agree that a redistricting bill should be adopted.

THE JUDICIAL ELECTIONS.

There will be a number of elections during the season of the General Assembly. There is great interest in the election of Judges. The only contest now indicated is for the position now held by Judges B-net and Buchanan. There are several candidates out for the places and the contest promises to be interesting. The talk is that there will be a surprise in the contest in the 3d—Judge Buchanan's circuit

PROSPECTS THIS WEEK

There is little likehood much will be done turing this week. There will probably be an idjournment on the first day of the session adjournment on the first day of the season out of respect to the memory of deceased members.

W. Bradley Applies for the Place -The Superintendent Writes Politely in Answer to Petition-Observations on the Subject of Letter Writing.

The recent resignation of Mr. J. D. Jennings, local agent of the Seaboard Air Line at Ab beville, made a vacancy, to fill which place the business men of the city made petition that Mr. W. W. Bradley be appointed to the position. While the request of the business men of Abbeville was not granted, the reply was respectful, and is in such striking contrast with some other correspondence which has been had with high officers of the Seaboard, we present the answer of Mr. Berkeley, who is perhaps more highly esteemed in Abbeville han any man on the road. He has been uniformly respectful and always Aboville man any man on the road. He has been uniformly respectful and always anxious to be accommodating as far as the rules and interests of the road will allow, while our business men really desired the appointment of Mr. Bradley, yet they appreciate the ci-inty with which their petition was decied:

Atlanta, Ga, Jan. 10, 1902.

Messrs. P. Rosenberg & Co., and Other Peditioners, Abbeville, S. C.:

Gentlemen-Your petition in behalf of Mr. W. W. Bradley for the position as Agent for the Seaboard Air Line Railway at your city, has been received.

In reply, beg to state that I am always glad to have the patrons of our Road take up such questions with me, and I assure you that I will give them due consideration.

Isaw Mr. Bradley while in your city yesterday, and had a talk with him. He impresses me as being a very bright and competent young man, but as he stated to me he is absolutely without experience in railroad work, and as all gentlemen and business men know chat the position of Agent at such an important and growing town as Abbeville, where competition is very strict, it is necessary to have a man, not only of ability, but one who is also experienced in railroad work, in vorder to do justice to our line. If Mr. Bradley had had soch experience, I would nave been giad to have appointed him, but it is incumbent on me to subserve first the increasing of the Company, which I represent; and I beg to state that in conjunction with the Traffic Department, we have gone over the ground and selected the best man at our disposal for the position, and I carnessly soggest that you give him your support, and I assure you that he will do everything in his power to subserve your interest as well as that of the Company.

E. Berkeley,
Superintendent.

What the General Assembly May or Mr. J. D. Jennings Resigns-Mr. W. What "M" Sees and Hears on His Stockholders Meeting - Oratorical Rounds About the City. Abbeville, S. C., Jan. 14, 1902.

THREE FIRES IN ONE WEEK. On last Wednesday morning at 5.30 o'clock he fire alarm awoke our citizens to find that he water works and the electric plant of the city were entirely consumed by fire, the origin of which is yet unknown so far as we have learned. Both plants under one cover were totally destroyed, the machinery alone standing among the smouldering ruins, and just how much of it will be fit for use again standing among the smouldering ruins, and just how much of it will be fit for use again depends the loss.

Mesars Sayre & Co. will loose about $1,000 or $5 000 dollars and the city perhaps $5 000 to $7,000, and no insurance whatever on either plant. Our city government have been using all diligence and rushing everything within their power, sparing neither labor nor money to give the city a hopply of water. As regards the electric lights we suppose they will be numbered with the old year in the "dead past," as we learn the oid lamp posts are again being put up to give light to the city. A $10,000 plant and no insurence is a lamentable factand stands out as a loss both to the city and individuals. Where it is possible we believe all property should be insured and especially public property.

On Sunday morning about 10 o'clock the fire was discovered at the factory church, and although a stiff wind was blowing, fortunately it was discovered in time to save the property, and but little damage resulted. The fire originated about the stove fine.

Again on Monday evening about 8 o'clock the fire alarm was sounded when the fire was discovered to be an out house near Williams College which was used for school purposes.

OUR CITY JAIL BUILDING. Since Sheriff Lyon has moved into the jail, he has had it whitewashed or painted, chang-ing the oid diagy red color for a french grey, which gives to it a neat and cheerful appear ance and is a decided improvement.

WEEK OF PRAYER AND UNION SERVICES Ended last Sunday night with services con-jucted in the Methodist Church by Rev. T. W Sloan. Presiding Elder Childs preached a fine ser-non in the Methodist Church last Sanday mon in the morning.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Beautiful and appropriate memorial services were held at the Methodist Sunday School last Sunday afternoon in memory of Miss Bessle Hill. Suitable resolutions were read by Mr. W. E. Hill, her teacher, and were adopted unaulmously by a rising vole, and ordered spread upon the pages of the Sunday School record book. The pastor Rev. J. O. Wilson made a few touching and appropriate remarks as to her beautiful life, assfulness in the school, and the sorrow of all over her death.

State Mans.

Mr. J. J. Strange, agent for the publishers, of Tunison's Survey, is in the County, selling maps of the States of South Carolina and North Carolina, which seem to be up-to-date in every particular. Distinctive lines show the dividing lines between the Counties; and important statistical figures are given in detail. These figures are oppled from the late if United States Census, and are therefore reliable. They are certainly correct as to Abbeville, and this would lead us to betieve that the others are also correct. Our people generally pay a much higher price for the cheap est pictures, which look no better than these maps. These maps are useful and are certainly as ornamental to the wall as many of the daubs which are hung on our walls. The orice of this map of South Carolina and North Carolina is only 95 seents. Should the agent, Mr. J. Strange, fall to find you, you can find the at Abbeville at the Glen Ethel Ion.

Besides the maps for South Carolina he sells school maps, atlases, globes and charts, agents wanted. Call to see him at the Glen Ethel Ion.

nered store of one hundred years' standing wasn't worth, apart from the lot, as much as a good suit of clothes. Larger sales, even though profits are smaller, afford opportunities for closer buying and nowadays when the fixed prices of manufacturers and obbers are blown to the four winds, the buyer gets the best bargain who can buy the largest quantity and get bis bill discounted. In fact, in these days of active competition when profits seem reduced in so many directions, the buying of the goods is equally important with the selling. The merchant who cannot buy to advantage might as well step aside and let the large dealer have the trade. The old maxim, "goods well bought are half sold," is truer to day than ever before.
